NOTES

1. Address Changes- certain properties listed on the Markham Inventory of Heritage Buildings were subsequently assigned new addresses due to:

- a. relocation within the municipality (i.e. Markham Heritage Estates subdivision);
- b. incorporation into in a new plan of subdivision on a new street or within a development project;
- c. lot severance;
- d. administrative changes to addresses.

These properties have not been included in the above listing of “additions” to the Inventory/Register. The new address of these properties was automatically added to Markham Inventory of Heritage Buildings since Council had already approved the inclusion of the heritage resource on the Inventory.

2. New Address in a heritage conservation district – if a new street was created in a heritage conservation district, the properties on that street were automatically added to the Markham Inventory of Heritage Buildings (i.e James Walker Court in Markham Village Heritage Conservation District).
3. New heritage conservation districts – once a new heritage conservation district was created by Council by by-law, the property addresses were automatically added (i.e. Unionville Heritage District in 1997).

HERITAGE MARKHAM BUILDING INVENTORYCRITERIA FOR SELECTING PROPERTIES OF HISTORICAL OR ARCHITECTURAL VALUE IN THE TOWN OF MARKHAM1. Historical Value

A property or the building or other structure which stands on it, has historical value when one or more of the following criteria are satisfied:

- a) It dates from an early age in the development of the Town's communities.
- b) It is an outstanding, representative, early, only or rare example of the work of an architect, builder, landscape architect, interior designer, sculptor, engineer or other environmental designer.
- c) It is associated with (an) owner/occupant(s) who had importance locally or had influence in a broader geographical area.
- d) It served as the place of an event or movement important locally or to a broader geographical area.
- e) It is associated with, and effectively illustrates, the Town's social, cultural, political or economic history. Included in this criterion would be: 1) meeting places such as town halls, railway stations, schools and places of worship; and 2) farmsteads.
- f) It affords or protects a significant natural view associated with local history.
- g) It meets such other criteria as may be determined from time to time.

2. Architectural Value

A property, or th building or other structure which stands on it, has architectural value when one or more of the following criteria is satisfied:

- a) It represents an outstanding, typical, early, only or rare method of construction.
- b) It is an outstanding, typical, early, only or rare example of an architectural style, period or type of building or structure.
- c) It exhibits an outstanding, aesthetic exterior design.
- d) It functions as a landmark, terminates a view or contributes in design to a streetscape or plan.
- e) It provides th open space needed to allow for visual appreciation of a building, a structure or a group of buildings or other structures, that is deemed to have historical or architectural value by any of the above criteria.
- f) It offers an outstanding, typical, early, only or rare form of interior design.
- g) It meets such other criteria as may be determined from time to time.

Criteria continued.

NOTES

1. The above architectural criteria will be judged against the building's or the structure's surviving integrity. Integrity means a composite quality derived from original materials, original workmanship, original location and intangible elements of feeling and association.
2. Buildings include houses, barns, driving sheds, churches, meeting houses, town halls, schools, railway stations, hotels, stores, post offices and industrial buildings. Other structures include fences, bridges and village pumps.
3. A property selected for inclusion in the "Heritage Markham Building Inventory" is considered to have architectural or historical value in relation to:
 - a) all buildings and structures in the Town, or
 - b) the historical community in which it is located (e.g. rural, Victoria Square, the Thornhill area), or
 - c) all buildings in a heritage conservation district or heritage conservation district study area, or
 - d) such other context as may be defined from time to time.
4. The perception of members of the Town's various communities has influence in the determination of historical and architectural value.
